FEAR AUTOIST HURT FATALLY WHEN AUTOS CRASH; FIVE INJURED

Israel Decker Most Seriously Hurt In Collision

Israel F. Decker, 55, caretaker of the Ross Twp. centralized school, was perhaps fatally hurt and four other persons were less seriously injured when a state highway department truck crashed head-on into a sedan driven by Decker on a highway between Highland and Leesburg in Highland County Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Decker, the most seriously injured, suffered a crushed chest and his upper jaw was fractured in several places. He was crushed against the steering wheel. His recovery is doubtful.

Mrs. Decker's condition is also considered critical as the front part of her skull was crushed and she also sustained a large cut on the inside of her mouth and bruises over the body.

Wilson Whitaker, 44, Shelbyville, Ind., brother of Mrs. Decker, has a crushed nasal bone between the eyes, a deep cut on the forehead and injuries to the right shoulder. Mrs. Whitaker received cuts on the forehead and the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker, Reba Augusta, suffered minor bruises and scratches.

Mr. and Mrs. Decker and Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker were rendered unconscious and were treated by Dr. Frame at Highland, after which they were removed in ambulances to the private hospital of Dr. R. L. Jaines at Jamestown.

The Whitaker family had been visiting the Deckers, who live at the Ross Twp. school building. Members of the two families had their dinner with them and drove to Highland County for a picnic. The accident occurred near the entrance of a narrow bridge. The state truck was occupied by two men who are believed to have escaped injury.

Seeks to Break
$1,000,000 Will

Mrs. Madeline Wolcott Sanborn, Eurasian actress and second cousin of the late Governor Roger Wolcott, appeared in Middlesex Probate Court, Massachusetts, in an attempt to break the million-dollar will of her father, J. W. Wolcott, Natick shoe manufacturer. She was left $125,000, but seeks a larger share on grounds that her sister, Mrs. Gayle T. Forbush, exerted undue influence on her father.

BREAKS THE BANK

"Breaking the bank" at Le Touquet Casino, Paris, has enlivened the visit of Mrs. Bella Factor, formerly of Chicago, to the French capital. She is said to have won $250,000 in two nights' play at the baccarat tables. Her husband, Jack Factor, has made a sensational rise from a Chicago barber shop to a stock broker's office in London.

HENLEY REGATTA IS OPENED WITH HEAVY FOREIGN ENTRANTS

U. S., Germany, Canada, Argentine Send Fast Oarsmen

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 2.—With one of the strongest foreign entry lists in recent years, the famous annual four-day Henley regatta was opened here today in the presence of thousands of enthusiasts. American, German, Canadian and Argentine representatives are among the foreign oarsmen competing against English crack teams.

Eighteen from Kent School and Princeton University, U. S. A., will race to try to keep the Thames Challenge Cup, the most valued team prize in the entire regatta, in American hands.

American crews will meet with keen opposition from the Club Canottieri Italiana of Buenos Aires, Delft University, Holland, Trinity College, Dublin, and English crews such as Leander and Thames.

H. L. H. Gunther, famous Dutch oarsman who defeated the brilliant Canadian, Joe Wright, Jr., in eight minutes, forty-two seconds in the final heat of the Diamond Sculls last year, is not defending his title.

Wright, anxious to regain the title he won in 1928, has again made the journey. He has formidable competition in S. J. Guest, Toronto, and Gerhard Boezelen, of the Berliner Rowing Club.

SAY BABE TO BEAR GRANDPA'S NAME

NEW YORK, July 2.—The son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh probably will be named Charles Morrow Lindbergh after his famous father and his grandfather, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow.

This was learned in well-informed circles Tuesday. At the same time, information was obtained about the probable plans for the near future of members of the Lindbergh and Morrow families.

The former Anne Morrow and her child intend to go to the Morrow summer home at North Haven, Me., as soon as the young mother has recovered her strength.

After her departure, her mother, Mrs. Morrow, plans to go to Mexico City to join the ambassador, probably within a month.

ATTIC MAN GUILTY OF MURDER, FOUND

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 2.—Otto Sanhuber, 36 years old, "attic man," was convicted of manslaughter last night by a superior court jury for the slaying in 1922 of Fred Osterreich, Milwaukee manufacturer.

PLAN WELCOME FOR JONES

MORE THAN 300 REGISTER FOR HOME REUNION

Governor Cooper May Attend Banquet Wednesday

Marking the largest registration in history for the opening day of the annual gathering, more than 300 former pupils of the O. S. and S. O. Home assembled at the state institution Tuesday on the first day of the Golden Jubilee reunion of the Association of Ex-Pupils.

The banquet Wednesday night, the crowning feature of the three-day gathering, will be attended by nearly 600 persons if a prediction made by George Robertson, Columbus, president of the association, materializes.

It still remains problematical whether Governor Myers Y. Cooper will be able to accept an invitation to attend the banquet, but the chief executive has promised to be present some time during the reunion. State Senator Paul M. Herbert, Columbus, will be the banquet speaker and Dr. George Lampe, Cincinnati, will be toastmaster.

Former pupils who registered Tuesday for the fiftieth yearly reunion were welcomed to the institution at dinner Tuesday night by Capt. Harold L. Hays, Home superintendent. President Robertson responded. The Home board of trustees was represented by Miss E. Jane Bailey, Wapakoneta, secretary.

All past presidents of the association attending the reunion were to be honored at a special luncheon Wednesday noon.

Albert Hudson, Dayton, retired printer, who was one of the first children admitted to the institution after it was founded in 1869, is among those attending the gathering. He is honorary president of the organization. Mrs. Becker, Toledo, a graduate of the Home in 1880, is also present, marking the first time she had attended the yearly gathering.

SCHOOL BOARD HEAD URGES DRY REPEAL

DETROIT, July 2.—In his inaugural address, Dr. Burt R. Shurly, newly elected president of the Detroit board of education, this afternoon demanded repeal of the prohibition law "for the benefit of our children."

"Prohibition is making snobs and snakes of our youth," the educator declared. "It must not only be repealed, but repealed speedily to save them from serious harm."

OCEAN FLYERS OFF FOR WEST

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 2.—The Southern Cross, veteran air argonaut, took off for the west coast at 8:05 a. m. today. Major Charles Kingsford-Smith, with the three companions of his cross-Atlantic flight, were in the plane. The trip to the coast will complete a round-the-world air voyage.

Stock Market Crash Brings Triple Murder

LINKED IN SLAYING OF REPORTER

Here is the gambling house at 621 Waveland Avenue, Chicago, in which Alfred Lingle, slain newspaper reporter, is reputed to have had an interest. When the place was raided several months ago, Lingle is said to have complained that a rival establishment, owned by a gangster syndicate, whose members are wanted in connection with Lingle's murder, was running full blast. Threats to Lingle are believed to have followed closing of the other place.

EXPECT JULY 4 CELEBRATION TO BE "BEST EVER"; PLAN PROGRAM

Weather being favorable, the annual community Fourth of July celebration being sponsored by the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs Friday afternoon and evening in Shawnee Park is expected to excel similar celebrations of the kind held in former years.

An attractive program has been outlined for both the afternoon and evening and elaborate arrangements are being made by the civic organizations behind the project. A concert by the Osborn Band will inaugurate the program at 2 o'clock after which a patriotic address will be delivered in the park pavilion at 3 o'clock by Gilbert E. Bettman, attorney general of Ohio, who has been obtained as the principal speaker for the occasion.

For the amusement of the youngsters various games and stunts will be scheduled and another feature will be a softball double-header at Cox Athletic Field. The Lang Chevrolet Co. will face the undefeated Robbins and Myers Co. team of Springfield and Geyers and the Downtown Country Club will play a non-league exhibition game.

Women of various charitable organizations in the city will furnish and serve food and drinks which will be available to the public at reasonable prices from 5:30 o'clock on.

A spectacular fireworks display is planned for the evening after dark and beginning at 7 o'clock dancing will be enjoyed in the park auditorium with music being furnished by a good orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Rothwell and their five children were made homeless by a fire of undetermined origin which completely destroyed a tenant house on a farm owned by Lewis Beal near the Needmore school house, south of Xenia, Monday morning.

The blaze was discovered by members of the Rothwell family at 9:30 o'clock and may have been caused, it is believed, by a defective flue as there was a fire in the kitchen range at the time.

The dwelling, a one and one-half story frame house, burned to the ground with all its contents. Nothing was saved but friends and neighbors have since been kind in extending assistance to the Rothwell family.

Mr. Beal, owner of the tenant house, could not estimate the loss on the building but said it was covered by insurance. The contents were not insured.

The couple asked permission for the ceremony to be performed at the funeral parlor when the license was obtained. Ben H. Ewing, funeral director, accommodated the couple and sent for a minister.

The Reverend Theophil Mehl performed the nuptials.

LONDON, July 2.—R. W. Porteous, an American missionary, and his wife who were captured and held by Chinese brigands since the end of March, have been released and have arrived safely at Kiangsi. It was announced by the China Inland Mission here today.

NATION WILL HONOR AMERICAN GOLFING KING AT RECEPTION

Elaborate Parade To Feature Return Of Sport Hero

NEW YORK, July 2.—"Bobby" Jones, king of clubs, (golf clubs), returns home from England in triumph this afternoon, and royal indeed will be his welcome.

Jones, aboard the liner Europa, was nearing the statue of liberty this morning, coming back from England where he thrilled the golfing world by winning the British open and amateur championships, a feat accomplished only once before in the same year—by John Ball in 1890.

And, as a tribute to his golfing genius, the north and south—New York and Georgia—have joined hands in making this "Bobby Jones Day," an occasion long to be remembered. The reception planned for the conquering golf hero will be reminiscent of greetings such as have been given to Lindbergh, Byrd, Kingsford-Smith, Chamberlin and those other heroes of the air.

"Bobby's" mother, a genteel, silver-haired Southern woman, and once a fine golfer herself, is here. So is his dad. And so are a hundred or more prominent Georgians, who came up from Atlanta by special train, automobile and even by airplane to welcome America's kingpin golfer. As one of the visitors, Ralph Smith, columnist on an Atlanta paper, put it: "We came up to yell for the home town boy who annexed the British empire to the East Lake (Atlanta) Golf Club."

A great harbor demonstration, participated in by tugs, yachts, fireboats and other craft, will greet Jones as he steams up the harbor. Squadrons of aeroplanes will soar overhead. The mayor's welcoming committee, headed by Joseph Johnson, will go down the bay on the S. S. Macon, to meet the famous golfer. At the same time, the Georgia delegation, headed by Major John S. Cohen, will sail out to Quarantine aboard the S. S. Mandalay to greet "The home town boy."

And when "Bobby" is landed at the Battery he will be paraded in triumph up lower Broadway to City Hall where Mayor James J. Walker will present him with the city's scroll of honor.

Miss Helen Schaefer, soloist, will sing the Star Spangled Banner. A huge crowd is expected to see the ceremonies and cheer Jones along the line of march.

Mrs. Jones, "Bobby's" mother, has been ill and is not feeling strong and she may not go down the bay to meet her son. But "Bobby's" father, Robert F. Jones, a rugged, bronzed-faced man of 51, will go down the harbor with the Georgia delegation.

"We're very proud of our boy," said Mr. Jones in an interview with International News Service. "We think we have reason to be proud of him. He is not only a good golfer, but a good son."

HUNTER BOYS REMAIN ALOFT

SKY HARBOR AIRPORT, CHICAGO, June 2.—More than three days ahead of the previous endurance flight record, John and Kenneth Hunter, flying coal miners of Sparta, Ill., and their City of Chicago, passed their 45th hour in the air here at 7:40 a. m. (E. S. T.) today.

SKY HARBOR AIRPORT, CHICAGO, July 2.—More than three monoplane City of Chicago, manned by John and Kenneth Hunter, was still in the air at dawn today.

Loaded with gasoline and food, the refueling plane Big Ben prepared to take off for the first contact of the day as soon as there was sufficient light.

At 4:40 a. m. (E. S. T.) the City of Chicago had passed 492 hours in the air.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Rivalry in alcohol selling was believed by police today to have caused the murder of Giuseppe Micello, 35, who was shot down last night by gangster killers as he strolled along an East Side street in the old "gas house" section.

The victim was riddled with six bullets as the murderers passed him in an automobile.

CITY'S BENEFACCTOR

Residents of Findlay, O., are hailing O. D. Donnell, above, president of the Ohio Oil company, a community benefactor by reason of his voluntary offer to save from financial embarrassment the depositors of the $3,000,000 Buckeye Commercial Savings Bank, with which he has no official connection. Donnell has placed resources of more than $2,000,000 at the disposal of the bank which was closed by its directors May 6 because of frozen assets.

SUCCESSOR TO OHIO DRY OFFICIAL NOT NAMED IS LEARNED

Life Of Dry Agent Scored By O'Neill In Statement

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Word of the resignation today of William H. O'Neill as prohibition administrator in the northwestern Ohio district, and his statement "prohibition is a failing experiment," was received without comment at the department of justice. It has not been decided who will be named to succeed O'Neill.

Referring to O'Neill's statement that "controversies and changes seem imminent under the new regime," it was said at the department numerous changes for the improvement of enforcement will be announced from time to time.

"A prohibition agent's life is a dog's life," said O'Neill. "The hours are terrible and the pay is poor. On the basis of hours an agent works, his salary is less than thirty cents an hour."

O'Neill also declared that "the government can scarcely hope to enforce the law now nor in the near future."

When asked what he intended to do in the future, O'Neill declared: "I have nothing in mind and don't know what I shall do. One thing is certain—no matter what happens I will never go back to the prohibition bureau."

O'Neill had charge of enforcement work in twenty-two counties.

HOLD BANK ROBBER AND FIND CASH

CHILLICOTHE, O., July 2.—A man who said he is C. A. Miller, recently injured in an automobile accident, was placed under guard at a hospital here Tuesday night after he had been identified by Orville Disher, cashier of the Rockford, O., bank, as one of two men who robbed the institution of $3,852 June 18.

Miller suffered three broken ribs when his automobile overturned near here ten days ago. Officials said he would be taken to Rockford as soon as he is released from the hospital, probably Saturday.

The injured man, who gave his address as Parkersburg, W. Va., at first was suspected of being Robert Zwick, notorious Cincinnati gangster. Miller, however, has only one leg and officials considered it improbable that Zwick had lost a limb.

Miller had $1,000 concealed in his artificial leg when taken to the hospital.

THIRTY-FIVE ENTER WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 2.—Entrants from thirty-five states and the District of Columbia have already won the right to compete in the national contest for the Edison scholarship on July 30.

Micello, police said, was a former lieutenant of Frankie Yale, slain New York gang leader, and had a police record.

The murderers calmly tossed the death gun at their victim's body and then drove their car through a throng of women and children as they escaped. A passing officer fired several shots at the car but his aim was bad. Two men were in the car, police were told.

ONE DEAD, ANOTHER INJURED AS GUNMEN ATTEMPT REPRISAL

Moran Henchmen Targets Of Battle On Busy Streets

CHICAGO, July 2.—"Iron Man" John Alcock martialled emergency police forces today in the widespread search for a trio of gangsters who last night attempted to assassinate three henchmen of George Moran, gang leader, and a girl in a police automobile and under police protection.

Two men were shot, one fatally, in the furious gun battle which was fought through downtown streets as police squads pursued the killers' automobile. The attacking gangsters escaped, however, under cover of a dense fog from a smoke bomb tossed from the back seat of their sedan.

The four persons marked for death had been arrested in Monday's raids as suspects in the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, who was shot down by a gangster's bullet on June 9.

Hundreds of pedestrians and motorists fled for cover as the bullets flew between the gangsters and police in the race down State Street, commercial center of the city.

Elbert Lusader, motorman of a street car, was shot through the throat as his car passed through the line of fire. He died almost immediately. Olaf Sventae, a watchman, was dropped by another bullet, but may live.

Jack Zuta, notorious director of Moran's vice and gambling interests and a suspect in the Lingle murder, was one of the party marked for the attack. His chief lieutenant, Solly Vision, was another, as was Albert Bratz, a henchman. The girl had given the name of Leona Bernstein.

Whether any of the Moran crew was wounded in the fusillade had not been determined at an early hour for the quartet leaped from the police machine at the first exchange of shots and disappeared.

All four were being driven from the detective bureau where they had been booked and released on bond after an all day grilling. Zuta asked police protection through the hoop, fearing some such reprisal. Lieutenant George Barker, commander of the bomb squad volunteered to act as guard.

AUTOISTS BENEFIT FROM GASOLINE WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—The gasoline warfare continued to rage merrily on the Pacific coast today. Filling stations here today continued to maintain prices ranging from thirteen to seventeen cents a gallon, while at Los Angeles a reduction by major companies to a price of twelve and one-half cents was met by independents who advertised their retail price as ten and one-half cents a gallon.

NINE PERSONS DIE IN LENINGRAD FIRE

LENINGRAD, July 2.—Nine persons, including three firemen, perished in a fire that destroyed the Soviet government's huge new "kitchen factory" here.

Incendiaries were blamed for the fire. The factory, which also contained a nursery, a library and a clubhouse, was recently built at a cost of 2,000,000 rubles (about $1,000,000). Its formal opening had been scheduled for Tuesday.

NOTED BEAUTY SAYS MARRIAGE O. K. BUT MARRIED AT FAULT

OAKLAND, Cal., July 2.—"Oh, marriage is all right. It's not the marriage—it's the people who get married. Sometimes they don't know what it's all about."

That's the opinion of Nina Craig—"Miss California" of 1928-29—about a popular social custom!

She admitted her experience was not varied.

After the ceremony which was to be a surprise to the parents, the bridegroom went home to tell mother, and stayed there!

The bride went to her home to tell mother, and stayed there!

Mrs. F. J. Craig, mother of "Miss California," went to the home of Mrs. H. W. Ludemann, mother of Harry Tappan Ludemann, 19, the bridegroom to talk it over.

When the conference ended, the bride and bridegroom continued to remain under the separate roofs. And today the runaway marriage stands annulled, on petition of the bridegroom's parents.

Therefore, what use to ask Nina Craig about marriage? Nevertheless, she has a few words to say: "Oh, I'm not bitter about marriage. It's a gamble, I guess. Some day the right chap will come along and then I'll be really married. I'm sure he will be the kind that knows his own mind and by that time I shall know my own mind, I hope."

It was a nice wedding—while it lasted. A church wedding at Martinez, with a ring ceremony, flowers and everything. An elopement, yes, but not one of those common place justice of the peace affairs.

The bride, winner of scores of beauty prizes, including a national prize at Baltimore last year, was ready to renounce her budding career as a professional beauty for that of a housewife.

She hasn't changed her decision on beauty contests.

"No more beauty contests," she said. "They're so useless. And usually so crooked. One of the national contests was all framed in advance."

"I have an opportunity to try for the movies. Hollywood will be my next goal. If that fails, there's always home and mother."

WOMAN GRIEVES COMPANION; DEATH ENDS FRIENDSHIP

OAKLAND, Cal., July 2.—A little old lady, her face turned upwards as if in supplication, stood today beside a new grave under a gnarled oak tree.

She could not hear the minister droning the ritual. She was deaf.

She could not see the plain, unadorned casket. She was blind.

They took Pauline Howe back to the furniture factory of the state school for adult blind.

For forty-one years she has worked, lived there. At first she was only blind. Then deafness came.

But from the day she was led stumblingly into the home, after her parents died, she had—companionship.

For forty-one years Pauline Howe and Clem Martin were friends. Sweethearts, some said. He had entered the home four years before her, seeking a cure for growing blindness.

Clem smiled on the awkward girl.

"I like you," he said.

Shyly she answered: "And I—I like your voice."

Together Clem and Pauline grew old but each passing year saw them bound closer by invisible bonds of complete understanding.

They became familiar figures on the streets. Through Clem's fading eyes Pauline "saw" the interesting sights, just as she had "seen" the World War, the Lindbergh flight, every important event of more than four decades. For Clem could read the headlines and large type.

Deafness came—but still she had Clem — "Old Clem" now to the other inmates. Nearing 70.

Then death struck — suddenly, cruelly.

She carried old Clem out to the cemetery.

Pauline still lives—but for her the world no longer exists. She has withdrawn into a colorless, soundless world of her own. A world of memories.

AUTO DAMAGED IN COLLISION HERE

No one was injured when a touring car driven by Mrs. Myrtle Dean, Ashland, Ky., and occupied by another woman collided with a sedan owned by George Valentine, colored, secretary of President Gilbert H. Jones, of Wilberforce University, and driven by George Young, Wilberforce, in front of the Lang Chevrolet Co. on E. Main St., Tuesday afternoon. The touring car had pulled in toward the curb and as it turned out it hit the sedan, which was traveling east on Main St. Damage to the sedan was placed at $20, including a bent fender.

Modern Method Lift Them Out

CORN Callouses Go Too

The safest and real modern way to remove corns, root and all—out to stay is soak them every night for 3 or 4 nights in an invigorating, stimulating Radox Footbath. Then put on modish shoes again, walk and dance with greatest comfort because there's nothing left to ache. No pain, no trouble.

Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layer of corn, each night penetrating further and further through the pores, carrying the salts to actual root of corn, so loosening it that it comes right out. Nothing like healthy, free from corn feet to assure happy days! Get a package of Radox at Sayre's Drug Store or any drugstore. —Adv.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FULFILL CHRIST'S LAW—Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.—Gal. 6:2.

COMMODITY PRICES

The principal cause of the recent upset in the stock market was probably the considerable decline in prices of commodities that has occurred during the past two years. While the public feels that the cost of living is still high, declining prices do not help business. They make producers cautious about buying supplies and raw materials, which checks factory operation.

Many business men are asking how far this decline in prices can be expected to go. Some authorities think it is related to the declining production of gold, an influence that always has some tendency to depress prices. But as credit is very ample with money loaning at low rates, it would not seem that the decline in gold production could have been the cause of the recent fall in merchandise prices.

Probably the present situation is simply the operation of the old law of supply and demand, which is the basis of all business. Industrial methods have been so improved, that the farms and factories have turned out more goods than the public was able to use. Consequently, as supply has exceeded demand, prices have fallen for a time.

But such conditions never last long. Excessive supplies of commodities tend to check production, while people keep on consuming nearly as many products as ever, so that soon demand exceed supply again, and prices rise.

The cost of living has been so high since the World war, that a very slow decline in prices has commonly been expected. But the recent fall in many staples has been sharp enough to do more harm than good. A moderate rise in some of these prices would be a good thing now, since it would convince buyers that they have nothing to gain by waiting. They would hurry into the market, and give the orders that are needed to start the industries booming at a high rate of speed.

THE TOKIO TASK

Ambassador Forbes will represent the United States at one of the most important posts in its foreign service. The task confronting him in Tokyo is to keep the relations between this country and the proud and sensitive Japanese nation running smoothly and amicably. The difficulties in his official path are commensurate with the opportunities he will have to render distinguished service both to his own country and to that to which he is accredited.

The uproar now being heard in Japan over the treaty of London cannot conceal the fact that latterly a better feeling toward the United States has developed in that country. A faction is vociferating against the naval agreement on the ground that it unduly favors the United States; but that error will be dissipated by time and a fuller knowledge of the immediate and remote consequences of the course defined by the treaty. Generally, our relations with Japan have improved.

The immigration question remains to inspire resentment; and there are also problems arising from commercial rivalry. The latter concern China largely and Manchuria particularly. Japan claims special interests in Manchuria. As long as her claim is theoretical, we have nothing to gain by disputing it; but if the manner in which she enforced it should interfere with the freedom of trade in Manchuria or elsewhere in China, we should have much to lose. So far this has not happened, at least not to a damaging extent. Still the possibility remains as a source of suspicion and potential friction.

Our interest in maintaining the most friendly relations with Japan is obvious. The Japanese are not a bellicose people; but neither are they a people to submit to affronts, as they showed by their wars with China and Russia. They are intelligent and enterprising and are apparently destined to play an ever larger part in this, the history of Asia. Consequently they are a people to be courted rather than offended. Ambassador Forbes could not have been sent to a post where his experience and tact would have been of greater service to his country.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

MARRIED WOMEN WORKERS

Somebody writes as follows:

"The only remedy for the present unemployment situation—so far as I can see—is to weed out the married women. Refuse to employ them. They already have one salary coming in. If all the married women hold their positions, there will never be any openings for thousands of students who need jobs. As a matter of fact, most of the married women are holding down men's jobs."

To say that all married women ought to be eliminated from jobs is surely putting it too strongly. There are today a great many husbands out of work. Their wives are loyally working to keep the home going. Husbands are not being displaced by wives. They are being helped by them.

And one hears that married women ought to be given positions as teachers in the schools. Often married women, with families, need teaching jobs much more than do unmarried women. And the married frequently make better teachers than single ones. That is to be expected because so many of them have had greater experience with children. No indeed, married women as a class can not be ruled out of the workaday world. They are too important. We need them too much.

SUCCESS AGAIN

Somebody of prominence has said that success depends primarily upon "ability and the steadfast refusal to become discouraged." That is not quite all the story. One may have ability and much persistence but give his ability to the wrong endeavor and his persistence to an unworkable project. There can be no definition of success which does not include judgment. More and more, in this complex world of many appeals, we need judgment.

TEMPERANCE

Mr. Wickersham, chairman of the president's crime commission, tells us temperance work, as carried on in the old days, has been abandoned and there has been no attempt at education in the matter of the value of prohibition. And this, of course, is one of the weaknesses of the situation in which the United States now finds itself. Temperance, toward the end of the pre-prohibition days, was gaining at a rapid rate. Education as to the evils of alcohol and the desirability of a greater and greater measure of temperance was having a marked effect on the custom of drinking. States were voting dry by preference long before the eighteenth amendment was adopted.

Unfortunately temperance education seems to have gone by the boards. We are trying to do by threats of fines and imprisonment what we were beginning to accomplish by the slow but sure processes of education. Perhaps the time has come for some kind of co-operation between law and education—between policeman and teacher.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

WHAT NEGRO fighters have held the world's championship?
Jack Johnson held the heavyweight championship; George Dixon the bantamweight and featherweight; Joe Gans the lightweight; Joe W.cott the welterweight, and Tiger Flowers the middleweight.

HUNTING LICENSES
How much income do the states receive from hunting licenses?
During the season of 1927-1928 more than 6,450,000 hunting licenses were issued to sportsmen throughout the United States, including Alaska, and the revenue to the states amounted to more than $9,300,000. New York with 675,780 licenses, and $699,873 in money returns, and Pennsylvania with 517,729 licenses and a revenue of $1,006,159, headed the list.

ESTIMATING WEIGHTS
What is the best way to estimate a person's weight without the use of scales?

The theory behind weight machine diagrams and medical charts which for years have dictated what a person should weigh according to his height, is inaccurate. Dr. Mary Louise Bollin, research worker at Teachers' college, Columbia university, reported in September, 1929, adding that a survey has shown that height is an almost negligible factor in determining weight. The only accurate method for determining weight, she discovered, is from a combination of five skeletal dimensions, shoulder width, width of hips, chest width, chest depth, and height. Chest depth was found to be the most closely related with weight, and is considered to be twice as important as any other factor.

HIGHEST AND LOWEST
Where are the highest and lowest points in the United States?
The highest point is at the peak of Mount Whitney (Cal.), 14,996 feet above sea level. The lowest is Death Valley (Cal.), 276 feet below sea level.

RECKONING TIME
Is time reckoned the same in China as in the Christian world?
Yes, the republic of China is now using the Gregorian calendar as are most western countries.

"GOING WEST"
How did the phrase "going west," as applied to death, originate?
It is of great antiquity. Sophocles, in Oedipus Tyrannus, referring to a calamity involving death throughout a wide district, says: "One man after another thou mightest see speeding towards the shore of the western god."

(NOTE: The following pamphlets may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a large stamped, self-addressed envelope for each, to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C.: "Who's Who in Hollywood," "Swimming," "Seeing Washington" and Charles P. Stewart's treatise on "Our Government.")

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK—A Young Man of Manhattan shot his wife while she had her hair done up in curl papers, and as a result she was carted off to the hospital looking like Sis Hopkins.

A man who'd do a thing like that is no gentleman.

WELCOME, CAL
Cal Coolidge has signed up with a metropolitan newspaper to contribute a daily article on anything that tickles his fancy, and the New York columnists are mildly spoofing Herbie's predecessor on his advent into the ranks of the pressmen.

One of The Brethren wondered out loud the other day "how long it will be before Mr. Coolidge starts writing pieces on 'How Hard It Is to Keep It Up Day After Day.'" And with a self-conscious and apologetic verbal giggle he adds, "All of us do it."

Don't listen to him, Cal. He's giving you a bum steer. All of us do not do it. A few of us regard it as an impertinence for a columnist to whine day after day about how hard a job it is for him to fill his allotted space. Readers aren't interested in that sort of tripe. If the exactions of a job are too great for your talent, quit it and give someone else a chance. Anyone who takes money for a slipshod or careless job is picking The Boss's pocket. And there's nothing I ever heard of that abhors a columnist from this tenet.

ANOTHER MATTER
New York Volstead Vigilantes committed an awful "fox pass" the other day when they violated the dress-suit decorum of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and the Central Park Casino by staging a raid during the dinner hour, pinching several of the servants and questioning the guests. The Ritz waiters have been charged with "possession," while the management of The Casino merely is called upon to say it was a lie that they were not sanctioning

THE "FALL GUY"

WHAT OF THE FUTURE FOR MORROW?

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Dwight W. Morrow on the Republican ticket and James A. Reed on the Democratic are being mentioned as presidential possibilities.

An impossible slate for 1932, of course.

To begin with, President Hoover's re-election would eliminate Mr. Morrow, who would not supplant the former if he could; and can't, anyway.

And ex-Senator Reed is 10 years too old.

No one who pays the slightest attention to politics can have failed to sense that Dwight Morrow has become a G. O. P. presidential possibility in the last few weeks—though not necessarily a possibility of earlier date than 1930.

True, his defeat for the senate in November would immediately snuff him out. But Republicans are confident Morrow will win easily.

Let him win senatorially by a landslide and it is difficult to think of a likelier presidential lightning conductor while later on—but, as previously remarked, not necessarily as soon as 1932. Mr. Hoover has 1932 cinched—unless—

Well, unless various things.

Suppose we turn now from Dwight Morrow's prospects to Amity Democracy's.

As to this year, Amity likes her prospects.

Despite indications that New Jer-

"set-ups" (the Volsteadian term for ginger ale and cracked ice).

Naturally, New York is annoyed at the thing. It's all right for the Vigilantes to get rough with a garish, second-string Broadway hotel, as they did a short time ago. Vigilantes must live. But it's a different matter when it comes to disturbing the stained-glass air of sanctity pervading such gold-laid joints as The Ritz and The Casino.

If we've reached the place in this country where wealth is no longer an assurance of immunity, some of us would like to know it.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL
The prohibition situation in New York is getting badly bailed up. The old-time clarity of distinction that characterized "enforcement" is fast disappearing.

For example: A Federal judge recently remarked that he entered the dining room of a mid-town hotel with the idea of tying on the nose bag and was pained and shocked to see a diner at a nearby table—a fiend in human form—extract a flask from his starboard pistol pocket and proceed to pour liquor into a glass, with no interference from the corps of surrounding waiters and bus boys.

With the laws of evidence as they exist today, what some of us would like to know is: How did Hizzoner know it was likelier that gurgled from the diner's flask? The mere fact that it flowed from the office of a flask is in itself no valid basis for the Judicial Owl's presumption.

And, going further, what right has this Federal judge thus to stigmatize an anonymous guest—to send him out into the world forever under the dastardly charge of having sat at a dinner table and wet his whistle?

Those who feel that The Unruly Drinker has sustained violence to his Constitutional prerogative at the hands of Hizzoner will please signify in the usual method.

Those opposed? The axes have it (with a little ginger ale and cracked ice on the side).

will go Republican, the Democratic managers expect big gains elsewhere in the fall congressional elections. Indeed, if they get control of the house of representatives they will not be surprised. Neither will the Republican managers; they virtually admit that they expect a great many G. O. P. drubbings in November.

At that, this year does not matter so much.

But how about 1932, a presidential year?

G. O. P. bosses are whispering among themselves of serious danger ahead—the danger of an exceptionally mean campaign two years hence, if the breaks don't materially improve for them in the meantime.

Chances for the Democrats do look promising—provided they do not put up some weak sister of a presidential candidate whom anyone can lick, or maybe two rival weak sisters, to divide the Democratic vote between them.

This is exactly what the G. O. P. bosses have been counting on, and the thought has been a great comfort to them.

Until lately their trust seemed to be well founded. The Democrats have acted like it—like gaining a lot of congressional seats this year and then getting into a row over the presidency and splitting wide open, as usual, year after next.

In such an event Republican strategy is simple—

Renominate and win by default—of the Democrats' hari-kari.

But recently an alarming development has occurred.

Ex-Senator Jim Reed of Missouri,

I don't believe in "peace at any price," in any relation, but I do think that if we can sacrifice ourselves a little to keep harmony in the family we should do it.

I know just how tiresome such visitors can become, and I sympathize with you, but the question is, isn't the harmonious relations with your mother-in-law worth the sacrifice? It does not matter what she does or does not do. That is her business. If she is pleased to entertain you, and your husband is happy in having dinner with his mother, shouldn't these considerations weigh more with you than your own personal comfort? Try to put yourself in your mother-in-law's place and think how you might feel under the circumstances.

As to the boring talk, can't you tactfully direct that into channels in which you are both interested, and so make it less boring? I know it is hard to do and impossible sometimes, but try it.

And maybe there will be times, especially now warm weather has come, when you can gently suggest that you think getting the Sunday dinner is too much for her, and you had better eat at home and run over in the cool of the evening to chat. If you are careful of her feelings now you will have nothing to regret later, when you don't have her with you. I am so glad you like the column. Thank you.

Learn How To Save Loved One

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

Going to the beach to celebrate the Fourth? All going in swimming?

Suppose one of your party should be drawn out of the water half-drowned. Would you know what to do to save his life? How unhappy you'd be if your life if you didn't, and through your ignorance lost a loved one. I am going to give you the best method of resuscitation, and this applies not only to drowning, but to heavy electric shocks or to asphyxiation by gas. Practice it immediately after you read this article. Practice it three or four times.

Prone Pressure Method of Resuscitation

1. Quickly examine the mouth and remove anything that is removable: false teeth, tobacco, chewing gum, etc.

2. Lay the patient on his stomach with both arms extended over his head. Turn his face to one side so that his nose and mouth are free for breathing.

3. Kneel astride the patient over his hips.

4. Place the palms of your hands on the small of his back so that the tips of your fingers are just out of sight around his side, with the little finger just touching the last rib. Hold your arms tight.

5. Swing the weight of your body forward on the patient, keeping your arms stiff while you count one, two—about the time of a second a count.

6. While counting "three," return to the upright position, removing your weight and pressure from the patient, but do not remove your hands. Repeat long enough to count "four, five."

Repeat these procedures, the swinging back and forward, 12 to 15 times a minute, making a complete respiration in four to five seconds. You can do this by your own breathing. While you are going forward, counting "one, two," breathe in. While you are coming back, count "three, four, five," and breathe out. (In any form of artificial respiration, a point to remember is to make the movements to restore the breathing no more rapidly than the normal breathing, which is from 12 to 15 times a minute. In the zeal to revive, there may be the impulse to make the movements too rapidly.)

As soon as you begin the artificial respiration, and while you are doing it, if others are present let them loosen any tight clothing about the patient's neck, chest and waist, and then keep the patient warm by covering his limbs with blankets or by rubbing them.

Keep up the artificial respiration without interruption, until the patient begins to breathe, or until the physician states that rigor mortis (stiffening of the body), which denotes death, has set in. Do not give up hope until this stiffening does take place.

Victims have been resuscitated after being worked on for eight or nine hours and even longer. The patient should be watched very carefully after breathing begins, and if it stops, the resuscitation should be again repeated.

Your assistant, if you have one, may do as follows:

1. Place a cloth saturated with ammonia or smelling salts near the patient's nose, first trying it out on himself to determine the distance at which it will not strangle.

2. Hit the patient's shoe heels a few times with a stick, and repeat this operation every five minutes until breathing commences.

3. Keep the patient warm.

The administration of an oxygen and carbon dioxide mixture very markedly stimulates breathing. The life-saving crews of the New York police department and the emergency hospitals now use this combined with the Pr

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

The Xenia Playground Association, facing a financial deficit, is hopeful that the benefit softball double-header Wednesday night at Cox Athletic Field will be well patronized and that fans will be generous in response to the appeal for voluntary donations in order that the "kitten ball" sport may be placed on a sound financial footing for the balance of the current season.

Kiwanis-Rotary meets the Cadettes in a regularly scheduled American League game, starting at 6 o'clock, in the first half of the bargain attraction. A full nine inning game will be played. In the aftermath, the Lang Chevrolet Co. faces the Jim Kellys of Dayton for the third time this season. The Kellys have held two decisions over Langs already this year by scores of 7 to 1 and 7 to 6.

A collection will be taken among the fans during the intermission between the two games. No admission, however, will be charged to see the twin bill.

It is estimated that nearly $100 will be needed to defray actual expenses for the remainder of the season. Two new balls are used for each game played and this constitutes the biggest item of expense.

Victorious in seven out of eight games played this season, the Xenia Merchants have arranged an attractive double-header for the Fourth of July at Washington Park. The local nine will play two games with the Lincoln Cubs, a colored team of Dayton and on next Sunday will open a three-game series with the Dayton Grimsers. The team responsible for the only defeat suffered by the Merchants this year. It will be recalled that the Grimsers' Fuchs beat the Merchants in fifteen innings. Jess Chambliss' boys won their first three games, then dropped one. Having ended one winning streak they immediately inaugurated another and the latest row of consecutive diamond wins has extended to four straight.

The older this Babe Ruth grows the better he seems to get. The Babe's barometer Tuesday showed that he has smacked thirty home runs already this season and is twelve days and twelve games ahead of his home run schedule of several years ago when he established a record of, we believe, sixty homers in a single season. He hit no less than fifteen round-trippers in June and is at the half-way mark of his best previous record. Moreover, the Babe says that in his opinion the heavy hitting this season is due, not to the so-called "rabbit ball" but to the poor crop of pitchers in the major leagues.

Tennis HOW IT IS PLAYED

WILLARD CROCKER

No. 1—INTRODUCTION

The object of this series is to give tennis enthusiasts a systematic set of instructions for the betterment of their game, that they may meet the various situations on the court with clearer understanding of what is most needed.

The essential equipment necessary for successful play is emphasized and the proper foundation upon which to build the individual's game is suggested. It must be understood that the development of anyone's game rests solely with the player's will to do.

Results are hindered or helped by the individual's manner of setting about it. Learn the proper foundation first and build the remainder of their game structure slowly and surely.

There are no handicaps unless you allow or make them. The game of tennis must be taken seriously when you play it, no matter when or where. That is the first step to success. Give up all "haphazard" play and make every movement on the court count for something.

Begin this season's campaign by making up your mind to follow a systematic course of play to develop each department of your game.

Study carefully each point of issue off the court, then try determinedly to put it to practical use on the court. Ask yourself this question: IS THE DEVELOPMENT OF MY GAME WORTH HARD WORK, STUDY AND PRACTICE?

DOWNTOWNERS LOSE TO GEYERS IN BATTLE FOR LOOP LEADERSHIP

The Downtown Country Club softball team had its four-game winning streak snapped when Geyers bunched nine of their ten hits in the fifth and sixth innings to score a 7 to 6 victory over the Downtowners in a National League tilt Tuesday night at the athletic field.

By virtue of the victory, which squared accounts with the 1929 city champs for a ten-inning defeat sustained a few weeks ago, Geyers are now in sole possession of first place by a margin of half a game. The setback sent the Downtowners to third place in the standing, half a game behind the Lang Chevrolet Co.

Held to one hit in the first four rounds, Geyers clustered four hits, including a home run by Pitcher Boxwell, to score three runs in the fifth. Fuller and Seal opened with singles but N. Murrell and Boxwell popped out. Then Boxwell hit safely over second when the ball eluded Eckerle, center fielder, the Geyer batter circled the bases and two runners scored ahead of him.

In the sixth stanza the Geyer nine batted entirely around and clustered five hits with an error to register four more runs, just enough to win. D. Murrell was safe on an error and Yeakley flied out to left. Then came successive singles by Fuller, Seal and N. Murrell. Bottorff lined out to Huston but Boxwell and Smith singled and four tallies were in.

The Geyer team was held hitless and runless in the last three innings but it made no particular difference.

The Downtowners got away to a two-run advantage in the second inning when with two down McCurrin walked, Frame singled and Finlay tripled. After this little flurry Boxwell was invincible for the next six innings and up until the last half of the ninth the Downtowners were held to five hits.

In the ninth the D. T. C. Club uncorked a rally that netted four runs but fell one short of evening the score. LeSourd reached second on an error, McCurrin grounded out but Frame was also safe on a miscue. Finlay hit his second three-bagger of the game and Corr followed with a double to left. Huston was tossed out by Boxwell at first for the second out. Morton doubled and Parrett beat out an infield hit. He took second on a passed ball. With the tying run on third and the winning marker on second, Boxwell forced Clemans to pop to third and the ball game was over.

Geyers collected ten hits off the delivery of Frame, D. T. C. Club hurler. The batting of Boxwell played a leading role in the victory. The Geyer pitcher hit at home run and two singles. The Downtowners gathered nine hits of which R. Finlay, second baseman, made three, a brace of triples and a single. Lineups:

One of three raids conducted by deputies of the sheriff's office with assistance of the police department Tuesday afternoon was successful and resulted in the arrest of Willie Shank, Jasper Pike, who pleaded guilty to possessing liquor and was fined $300 and costs Wednesday morning by Municipal Judge E. The raiders confiscated a glass gallon jug half full of corn whiskey and destroyed eighty-five pint bottles of home brew discovered in the cellar.

George Sugden, chief deputy sheriff, and L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, led the raid.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FULFILL CHRIST'S LAW—Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.—Gal. 6:2.

COMMODITY PRICES

The principal cause of the recent upset in the stock market was probably the considerable decline in prices of commodities that has occurred during the past two years. While the public feels that the cost of living is still high, declining prices do not help business. They make producers cautious about buying supplies and raw materials, which checks factory operation.

Many business men are asking how far this decline in prices can be expected to go. Some authorities think it is related to the declining production of gold, an influence that always has some tendency to depress prices. But as credit is very ample with money loaning at low rates, it would not seem that the decline in gold production could have been the cause of the recent fall in merchandise prices.

Probably the present situation is simply the operation of the old law of supply and demand, which is the basis of all business. Industrial methods have been so improved, that the farms and factories have turned out more goods than the public was able to use. Consequently, as supply has exceeded demand, prices have fallen for a time.

But such conditions never last long. Excessive supplies of commodities tend to check production, while people keep on consuming nearly as many products as ever, so that soon demand exceeds supply again, and prices rise.

The cost of living has been so high since the World war, that a very slow decline in prices has commonly been expected. But the recent fall in many staples has been sharp enough to do more harm than good. A moderate rise in some of these prices would be a good thing now, since it would convince buyers that they have nothing to gain by waiting. They would hurry into the market, and give the orders that are needed to start the industries booming at a high rate of speed.

THE TOKIO TASK

Ambassador Forbes will represent the United States at one of the most important posts in its foreign service. The task confronting him in Tokyo is to keep the relations between this country and the proud and sensitive Japanese nation running smoothly and amicably. The difficulties in his official path are commensurate with the opportunities he will have to render distinguished service both to his own country and to that to which he is accredited.

The uproar now being heard in Japan over the treaty of London cannot conceal the fact that latterly a better feeling toward the United States has developed in that country. A faction is vociferating against the naval agreement on the ground that it unduly favors the United States; but that error will be dissipated by time and a fuller knowledge of the immediate and remote consequences of the course defined by the treaty. Generally, our relations with Japan have improved.

The immigration question remains to inspire resentment; and there are also problems arising from commercial rivalry. The latter concern China largely and Manchuria particularly. Japan claims special interests in Manchuria. As long as her claim is theoretical, we have nothing to gain by disputing it; but if the manner in which she enforced it should interfere with the freedom of trade in Manchuria or elsewhere in China, we should have much to lose. So far this has not happened, at least not to a damaging extent. Still the possibility remains as a source of suspicion and potential friction.

Our interest in maintaining the most friendly relations with Japan is obvious. The Japanese are not a bellicose people; but neither are they a people to submit to affronts, as they showed by their wars with China and Russia. They are intelligent and enterprising and are apparently destined to play an ever larger part in this, the history of Asia. Consequently they are a people to be courted rather than offended. Ambassador Forbes could not have been sent to a post where his experience and tact would have been of greater service to his country.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

MARRIED WOMEN WORKERS

Somebody writes as follows:

"The only remedy for the present unemployment situation—so far as I can see—is to weed out the married women. Refuse to employ them. They already have one salary coming in. If all the married women hold their positions, there will never be any openings for thousands of students who need jobs. As a matter of fact, most of the married women are holding down men's jobs."

To say that all married women ought to be eliminated from jobs is surely putting it too strongly. There are today a great many husbands out of work. Their wives are loyally working to keep the home going. Husbands are not being displaced by wives. They are being helped by them.

And one hears that married women ought to be given positions as teachers in the schools. Often married women, with families, need teaching jobs much more than do unmarried women. And the married frequently make better teachers than single ones. That is to be expected because so many of them have had greater experience with children. No indeed, married women as a class can not be ruled out of the workaday world. They are too important. We need them too much.

SUCCESS AGAIN

Somebody of prominence has said that success depends primarily upon "ability and the steadfast refusal to become discouraged." That is not quite all the story. One may have ability and much persistence but give his ability to the wrong endeavor and his persistence to an unworkable project. There can be no definition of success which does not include judgment. More and more, in this complex world of many appeals, we need judgment.

TEMPERANCE

Mr. Wickersham, chairman of the president's crime commission, tells us temperance work, as carried on in the old days, has been abandoned and there has been no attempt at education in the matter of the value of prohibition. And this, of course, is one of the weaknesses of the situation in which the United States now finds itself. Temperance, toward the end of the pre-prohibition days, was gaining at a rapid rate. Education as to the evils of alcohol and the desirability of a greater and greater measure of temperance was having a marked effect on the custom of drinking. States were voting dry by preference long before the eighteenth amendment was adopted.

Unfortunately temperance education seems to have gone by the boards. We are trying to do by threats of fines and imprisonment what we were beginning to accomplish by the slow but sure processes of education. Perhaps the time has come for some kind of co-operation between law and education — between policeman and teacher.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

WHAT NEGRO fighters have held the world's championship?
Jack Johnson held the heavyweight championship. George Dixon, the bantamweight, and featherweight; Joe Gans the lightweight; Joe W. "Cott" the welterweight, and Tiger Flowers the middleweight.

HUNTING LICENSES

How much income do the states receive from hunting licenses? During the season of 1927-1928 more than 6,450,000 hunting licenses were issued to sportsmen throughout the United States, including Alaska, and the revenue to the states amounted to more than $9,500,000. New York with 675,780 licenses, and $699,873 in money returns, and Pennsylvania with 517,729 licenses and a revenue of $1,066,159, headed the list.

ESTIMATING WEIGHTS

What is the best way to estimate a person's weight without the use of scales?

The theory behind weight machine diagrams and medical charts which for years have dictated what a person should weigh according to his height, is inaccurate. Dr. J. A. L. Bollen, research worker at Teachers' college, Columbia university, reported in September, 1929, adding that a survey has shown that height is an almost negligible factor in determining weight. The only accurate method for determining weight, he discovered, is from a combination of five skeletal dimensions, shoulder width, width of hips, chest width, chest depth, and height. Chest depth was found to be the most closely related with weight, and is considered to be twice as important as any other factor.

HIGHEST AND LOWEST

Where are the highest and lowest points in the United States? The highest point is at the peak of Mount Whitney (Cal.), 14,496 feet above sea level. The lowest is Death Valley (Cal.), 276 feet below sea level.

RECKONING TIME

Is time reckoned the same in China as in the Christian world? Yes, the republic of China is now using the Gregorian calendar as are most western countries.

"GOING WEST"

How did the phrase "going west," as applied to death, originate? It is of great antiquity. Sophocles, in Oedipus Tyrannus, referring to a calamity involving death throughout a wide district, says: "One man after another thou mightest see speeding towards the shore of the western god."

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK—A Young Man of Manhattan shot his wife while she had her hair done up in curl papers, and as a result she was carted off to the hospital looking like Sis Hopkins.

A man who'd do a thing like that is no gentleman.

WELCOME, CAL

Cal Coolidge has signed up with a metropolitan newspaper to contribute a daily article on anything that tickles his fancy, and the New York columnists are mildly spoofing Herbie's predecessor on his advent into the ranks of the pressmen.

One of The Brethren wondered out loud the other day "how long it will be before Mr. Coolidge starts writing pieces on 'How Hard It Is to Keep It Up Day After Day.'" And with a self-conscious and apologetic verbal giggle he adds, "All of us do it."

Don't listen to him, Cal. He's giving you a bum steer. All of us do not do it. A few of us regard it as an impertinence for a columnist to whine day after day about how hard a job it is for him to fill his allotted space. Readers aren't interested in that sort of tripe. If the exactions of a job are too great for your talent, quit it and give someone else a chance.

Anyone who takes money for a slipshod or careless job is picking The Boss's pocket. And there's nothing I ever heard of that absolves a columnist from this tenet.

ANOTHER MATTER

New York Volstead Vigilantes committed an awful "fox pass" the other day when they violated the dress-suit decorum of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and the Central Park Casino by staging a raid during the dinner hour, pinching several of the servants and questioning the guests. The Ritz waiters have been charged with "possession," while the management of The Casino merely is called upon to say it was a lie—that they were not sanctioning

THE "FALL GUY"

WHAT OF THE FUTURE FOR MORROW?

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Dwight W. Morrow on the Republican ticket and James A. Reed on the Democratic are being mentioned as presidential possibilities.

An impossible slate for 1932, of course.

To begin with, President Hoover's renomination will eliminate Mr. Morrow, who would not supplant the former if he could; and can't, anyway.

And ex-Senator Reed is 10 years too old.

No one who pays the slightest attention to politics can have failed to sense that Dwight Morrow has become a G. O. P. presidential possibility in the last few weeks—though not necessarily a possibility of earlier date than 1936.

True, his defeat for the senate in November would immediately snuff him out. But Republicans are confident Morrow will win easily.

Let him win senatorially by a landslide and it is difficult to think of a likelier presidential lightning conductor while later on—but, as previously remarked, not necessarily as soon as 1932. Mr. Hoover has 1932 cinched—unless—

Well, unless various things.

Suppose we turn now from Dwight Morrow's prospects to Aunty's. As to this year, Aunty likes her prospects. Despite indications that New Jer-

"set-ups" (the Volsteadian term for gin and cracked ice).

Naturally, New York is annoyed at the thing. It's all right for the Vigilantes to get rough with a garish, second-string Broadway hotel, as they did a short time ago. Vigilantes must live. But it's a different matter when it comes to disturbing the stained-glass air of sanctity pervading such gold-laid joints as The Ritz and The Casino.

If we've reached the place in this country where wealth is no longer an assurance of immunity, some of us would like to know it.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL

The prohibition situation in New York is getting badly balled up. The old-time clarity of definition that characterized "enforcement" is fast disappearing.

For example: A Federal judge recently remarked that he entered the dining room of a mid-town hotel with the idea of tying on the nose bag and was pained and shocked to see a diner at a nearby table—a fiend in human form—extract a flask from his starboard pistol pocket and proceed to pour liquor into a glass, with no interference from the corps of surround waiters and bus boys.

With the laws of evidence as they exist today, what some of us would like to know is: How did Higdon know it was liquor that gurgled from the diner's flask? The mere fact that it flowed from the office of a flask is in itself no valid basis for the Judicial Owl's presumption.

And, going further, what right has this Federal judge thus to stigmatize an anonymous guest—to send him out into the world forever under the dastardly charge of having sat at a dinner table and wet his whistle?

Those who feel that The Unknown Drinker has sustained violence to his Constitutional prerogative at the hands of Higdon will please signify in the usual method.

Those opposed? The eyes have it (with a little ginger ale and cracked ice on the side).

say will go Republican, the Democratic managers expect big gains elsewhere in the fall congressional elections. Indeed, if they get control of the house of representatives they will not be surprised. Neither will the Republican managers; they virtually admit that they expect a great many G. O. P. drubbings in November.

At that, this year does not matter so much.

But how about 1932, a presidential year?

G. O. P. bosses are whispering among themselves of serious danger ahead—the danger of an exceptionally mean campaign two years hence, if the breaks don't materially improve for them in the meantime.

Chances for the Democrats do look promising—provided they do not put up some weak sister of a presidential candidate whom anyone can lick, or maybe two rival weak sisters, to divide the Democratic vote between them.

This is exactly what the G. O. P. bosses have been counting on, and the thought has been a great comfort to them.

Until lately their trust seemed to be well founded. The Democrats have acted like it-like gaining a lot of congressional seats this year and then getting into a row over the presidency and splitting wide open, as usual, year after next.

In such an event Republican strategy is simple.

Renominate and win by default of the Democrats' hari-kari.

But recently an alarming development has occurred.

Ex-Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, whom everyone had supposed entirely too venerable ever to be heard from again, suddenly has announced that he is far otherwise and virtually declared himself in the Democratic running.

Now, Jim could hold his party together; it is difficult to think of any other Democrat who could.

Not can any living opponent lick Jim Reed by default.

If he runs he's terribly dangerous—and in a dangerous year.

Perhaps because all this is so obvious, there are strong hints that his self-proclaimed candidacy is beginning to "take," too, in spite of his age.

If it were 1936, Dwight Morrow probably would be nominated to oppose Reed (if Reed himself is able to get the Democratic nomination). But it must be 1932, not 1936, for Reed, or not at all.

(A second article on Presidential Possibilities follows tomorrow.)

Ice cream is good for all to eat in hot weather. Eat it slowly, however, our doctor warns. The walnut sticks will keep, so better double the recipe so as to have some on hand for divers occasions.

Today's Recipes

Eggs au Gratin—Two cups milk, one onion, six cloves, two tablespoons butter, four or five eggs, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-half teaspoon paprika, one cup soft bread crumbs, one cup grated cheese, few grains mace. Scald milk and the quartered onion in which the cloves have been stuck. Melt butter, add flour and the milk. Stir until sauce boils, then add one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Strain and pour half the sauce in a shallow baking pan. Mix crumbs, cheese, remaining salt, paprika and mace. Cover sauce with half the crumbs, place in the oven until very hot. Break eggs separately and arrange on the crumbs. Surround with remaining sauce, cover with crumbs and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until eggs are set.

Walnut Sticks—Two whole eggs, one-half cup flour, one cup brown sugar, one teaspoon baking powder, one cup English walnut meats, broken. Bake in layer in medium oven. Cut into "sticks" when cold.

Cherry Roll—One and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one tablespoon sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, three tablespoons fat, one egg, six tablespoons milk. Mix the flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Cut in the fat with a knife. Add the egg and milk. When a soft dough forms, pat it out until one-fourth inch thick. Spread with pitted, sweetened and slightly thickened cherries, and roll up like a jelly roll. Bake on a greased pan for 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve, cut in slices. Serves six.

Learn How To Save Loved One

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

Going to the beach to celebrate the Fourth? All going in swimming?

Suppose one of your party should be drawn out of the water head-downed. Would you know what to do to save his life? How unhappy you'd be all your life if you didn't, and through your ignorance lost a loved one. I am going to give you the best method of resuscitation, and this applies not only to drowning, but to heavy electric shocks or to asphyxiation by gas. Practice it immediately after you read this article. Practice it three or four times.

Prone Pressure Method of Resuscitation

1. Quickly examine the mouth and remove anything that is removable: false teeth, tobacco, chewing gum, etc.

2. Lay the patient on his stomach with both arms extended over his head. Turn his face to one side so that his nose and mouth are free for breathing.

3. Kneel astride the patient over his hips.

4. Place the palms of your hands on the small of his back so that the tips of your fingers are just out of sight around his side, with the little finger just touching the last rib. Hold your arms tight.

5. Swing the weight of your body forward on the patient, keeping your arms stiff while you count one, two—about the time of a second a count.

6. While counting "three," return to the upright position, removing your weight and pressure from the patient, but do not remove your hands. Rest long enough to count "four, five."

Repeat these procedures, the swinging back and forward, 12 to 15 times a minute, making a complete respiration in four to five seconds. You can do this by your own breathing. While you are going forward, counting "one, two," breathe in. While you are coming back, count "three, four, five," and breathe out. (In any form of artificial respiration, a point to remember is to make the movements to restore the breathing no more rapidly than the normal breathing, which is from 12 to 18 times a minute. In the zeal to revive, there may be the impulse to make the movements too rapidly.)

As soon as you begin the artificial respiration, and while you are doing it, if others are present, let them loosen any tight clothing about the patient's neck, chest and waist, and then keep the patient warm by covering his limbs with blankets or by rubbing them.

Keep up the artificial respiration without interruption, until the patient begins to breathe, or until the physician states that rigor mortis (stiffening of the body), which denotes death, has set in. Do not give up hope until this stiffening does take place.

Victims have been resuscitated after being worked on for eight or nine hours and even longer. The patient should be watched very carefully after breathing begins, and if it stops, the resuscitation should be again repeated.

Your assistant, if you have one, may do as follows:

1. Place a cloth saturated with ammonia or smelling salts near the patient's nose, first trying it out on himself to determine the distance at which it will not strangle.

2. Hit the patient's shoe heels a few times with a stick, and repeat this operation every five minutes until breathing commences.

Do not move the patient until breathing normally without assistance. If absolutely necessary to move him, he should be placed on a hard surface, such as a door or a floor of a conveyance. But you must not stop or interrupt the resuscitation.

Heed Feeling of Mother

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

SHOULD we do things we don't want to, to keep peace, say with a mother-in-law? Especially if said mother-in-law does not do what she does not want to do to please us?

If such things don't involve a moral principle we should, don't you think? Of course you can argue that in doing so and trying to give the impression that we are pleased to do them, we may be acting a lie, but I don't believe that kind of lying would condemn us.

I don't believe in "peace at any price," in any relation, but I do think that if we can sacrifice ourselves a little to keep harmony in the family we should do it.

This is the case at point:

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Am a woman of 40, and think you surely give wonderful advice. I wonder if you can offer me some suggestions."

"Would you go to a person's house for an evening or for Sunday dinner when you didn't want to, and when the other person never came to your house only when she knew your husband was at home?"

"She is my husband's mother. There is no particular liking between us. I like to stop and chat with her on the street when we meet, but she is one of those people who become very tiresome after you listen to them for awhile. I guess you know the kind I mean."

"I have been going there to Sunday dinner lately, and I am getting so tired of it I don't know what to do. I never was a person to go out and eat."

"Now, Miss Lee, she is a woman who does absolutely what she wants to do, and she doesn't step out of the way for anybody. So I don't see why I should do what I don't care about doing or what doesn't give me any pleasure. I want to get out of it in a pleasant way without getting her tongue started. Please answer this as you would the so-called "unkissable girls."

MRS. J.

I know just how tiresome such visitors can become, and I sympathize with you, but the question is, isn't the harmonious relations with your mother-in-law worth the sacrifice? It does not matter what she does or does not do. That is her business. If she is pleased to entertain you, and your husband is happy in having dinner with his mother, shouldn't these considerations weigh more with you than your own personal comfort? Try to put yourself in your mother-in-law's place and think how you might feel under the circumstances.

As to the boring talk, can't you tactfully direct that into channels in which you are both interested, and so make it less boring? I know it is hard to do and impossible sometimes, but try it.

And maybe there will be times, especially now warm weather has come, when you can gently suggest that you think getting the Sunday dinner is too much for her, and you had better eat at home and run over in the cool of the evening to chat. If you are careful of her feelings now you will have nothing to regret later, when you don't have her with you. I am so glad you like the column. Thank you.

Matter of Opinion

By GLADYS GLAD

There are still a great number of people in the world who refuse to countenance smoking. I myself can see no harm in an occasional cigarette. But I am of the opinion that excessive smoking is entirely irreconcilable with true beauty.

A physician has recently announced that "trench mouth," a disease which became quite prevalent during the war, is becoming more common among women "since women have taken up smoking."

Smoking need have no deleterious effects if women keep their teeth in perfect condition. This means that the woman smoker must give more care to her teeth than the non-smoker.

The caution also must be given women to cease smoking if their gums are inclined to bleed, and not to revert to the habit until the gums have been restored to health. When ever the gums become reddened or bleed easily, the safe thing to do is to consult a dentist immediately. If it is treated in time, the condition may be cured. If it is neglected, such a condition has been known to result in cancer.

The smoker should wash her mouth much more frequently than the non-smoker. Warm water in which a tiny pinch of bicarbonate of soda has been dissolved is an effective cleanser of the mouth after smoking.

The soda rinse will neutralize whatever acidity may be present in the mouth. It will also remove the odor of tobacco from the breath.

To rinse the mouth with this solution is an excellent practice, regardless of whether or not you are a smoker. Most of our gum troubles arise from acidity of the mouth. The soda rinse alleviates this danger and frequently entirely remedies bad breath.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

The Xenia Playground Association, facing a financial deficit, is hopeful that the benefit softball double-header Wednesday night at Cox Athletic Field will be well patronized and that fans will be generous in response to the appeal for voluntary donations in order that the "kitten ball" sport may be placed on a sound financial footing for the balance of the current season.

Kiwanis-Rotary meets the Cadettes in a regularly scheduled American League game, starting at 6 o'clock, in the first half of the bargain attraction. A full nine inning game will be played. In the aftermath, the Lang Chevrolet Co. faces the Jim Kellys of Dayton for the third time this season. The Kellys hold two decisions over Langs already this year by scores of 7 to 1 and 7 to 0.

A collection will be taken among the fans during the intermission between the two games. No admission, however, will be charged to see the twin bill.

It is estimated that nearly $100 will be needed to defray actual expenses for the remainder of the season. Two new balls are used for each game played and this constitutes the biggest item of expense.

Victorious in seven out of eight games played this season, the Xenia Merchants have arranged an attractive double-header for the Fourth of July at Washington Park. The local nine will play two games with the Lincoln Cubs, a colored team of Dayton and on next Sunday will open a three-game series with the Dayton Chimer Puels, the team responsible for the only defeat suffered by the Merchants this year. It will be recalled that the Griesmer Puels beat the Merchants in fifteen innings. Jess Chambliss' boys won their first three games, then dropped one. Having ended one winning streak they immediately inaugurated another and the latest row of consecutive diamond wins has extended to four straight.

The older this Babe Ruth grows the better he seems to get. The Babe's barometer Tuesday showed that he has smacked thirty home runs already this season and is twelve days and twelve games ahead of his home run schedule of several years ago when he established a record of, we believe, sixty homers in a single season. He hit no less than fifteen round-trippers in June and is at the half-way mark of his best previous record. Moreover, the Babe says that in his opinion the heavy hitting this season is due, not to the so-called "rabbit ball" but to the poor crop of pitchers in the major leagues.

Tennis HOW IT IS PLAYED

WILLARD CROCKER
No. 1-INTRODUCTION

The object of this series is to give tennis enthusiasts a systematic set of instructions for the betterment of their game, that they may meet the various situations on the court with clearer understanding of what is most needed.

The essential equipment necessary for successful play is emphasized and the proper foundation upon which to build the individual game is suggested. It must be understood that the development of anyone's game rests solely with the player's will to do.

Results are hindered or helped by the individual's manner of setting about it. Learn the proper foundation first and build the remainder of your tennis structure slowly and surely.

There are no handicaps unless you allow or make them. The game of tennis must be taken seriously when you play it, no matter when or where. That is the first step to success. Give up all "hap-hazard" play and make every movement on the court count for something.

Begin this season's campaign by making up your mind to follow a systematic course of play to develop each department of your game.

Study carefully each point of instruction of the court, then try determinedly to put it to practice use on the court. Ask yourself this question: IS THE DEVELOPMENT OF MY GAME WORTH HARD WORK, STUDY AND PRACTICE?

DOWNTOWNERS LOSE TO GEYERS IN BATTLE FOR LOOP LEADERSHIP

The Downtown Country Club softball team had its four-game winning streak snapped when Geyers bunched nine of their ten hits in the fifth and sixth innings to score a 7 to 6 victory over the Downtowners in a National League tilt Tuesday night at the athletic field.

By virtue of the victory, which squared accounts with the 1929 city champs for a ten-inning defeat sustained a few weeks ago, Geyers are now in sole possession of first place by a margin of half a game. The setback sent the Downtowners to third place in the standing, half a game behind the Lang Chevrolet Co.

Held to one hit in the first four rounds, Geyers clustered four hits, including a home run by Pitcher Boxwell, to score three runs in the fifth. Fuller and Seall opened with single and N. Murrell and Boxwell popped out. Then Boxwell hit safely over second when the ball eluded Eckler, center fielder, the Geyer hurler circled the bases and two runners scored ahead of him.

In the sixth stanza the Geyer nine batted entirely around and clustered five hits with an error to register four more runs, just enough to win. D. Murrell was safe on an error and Yeakley flied out to left. Then came successive singles by Fuller, Seall and N. Murrell. Boxwell lined out to Huston but Boxwell and Smith singled and four tallies were in.

The Geyer team was held hitless and runless in the last three innings but it made no particular difference.

The Downtowners got away to a two-run advantage in the second inning when with two down McCurrin walked, Frame singled and Finlay tripled. After this little flurry Boxwell was invincible for the next six innings and up until the last half of the ninth the Downtowners were held to five hits.

In the ninth the D. T. C. Club uncorked a rally that netted four runs but fell one short of evening the score. LeSourd reached second on an error. McCurrin grounded out but Frame was also safe on a miscue. Finlay hit his second three-bagger of the game and Corr followed with a double to left. Huston was tossed out by Boxwell at first for the second out. Morton doubled and Parrett beat out an infield hit. He took second on a passed ball. With the tying run on third and the winning marker on second, Boxwell forced Clemans to pop to third and the ball game was over.

Geyers collected ten hits off the delivery of Frame, D. T. C. Club hurler. The batting of Boxwell played a leading role in the victory. The Geyer pitcher hit a home run and two singles. The Downtowners gathered nine hits of which R. Finlay, second baseman, made three, a brace of triples and a single. Lineups:

BACK OF TRUE CRAFTSMANSHIP—patient training, painstaking pride. Back of Chesterfield's popularity—years of experience in the buying and blending of fine tobaccos and one unchanging standard of excellence.

UNFAILING GOOD TASTE, the result of quality tobaccos, skilful blending, endless care—that's what wins smokers to Chesterfield—and holds them.

LIGHT A CHESTERFIELD for the first time or the fifty-first, and enjoy afresh the discovery that here, at last, is a cigarette made to your own liking... mild, rich, fragrant—first in the one thing you want most... "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price. LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

DAD'S GIRL THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO DESERVED TO WIN

READ THIS FIRST: Clara Dee Forester is a millionaire's daughter who is left but one dollar. She lives at Mrs. Flynn's boarding house, where she meets Winfield Baxter, a young chemist. Also Estelle Kay, who persuades her to model for the artist, Ivan Moreau. Clara Dee loves Winfield, but Ivan forces his attentions upon her till she is obliged to defend herself with a gun. Just as she falls down the stairs, she hears a shot, and the next day learns that the artist was killed. She is arrested and tried for murder, acquitted, but still guilty in the eyes of the world. Winfield had disappeared, and then announced an important scientific discovery.

Clara Dee gets a position with a large importing house, and loses it when they learn that she was the girl tried for the murder of Ivan Moreau. She obtains another position with the National Chemical Company and makes good.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER 40 She let the men in the office severely alone, except for business communications, and heard with flaming resentment, the remarks exchanged between two or three of them and some of the girls. It was the common knowledge of the whole office force that Jack Vernon, though possessed of a wife and three small children, flirted outrageously with any girl who would respond to his advances.

dined with them instead of going home to dinner with his family, lunched with a different one each day, drove them home at late hours.

Clara Dee had listened to and discussed impersonally, in a dim, uncomprehending way, the marital troubles of her wealthy friends, the Vanderbilts, commented upon alimony, debated the advisability of the custody of the innocent children. But she had never realized, as she was now capable of understanding, what these could mean: of heart-ache, anguish, loneliness, to at least some of the persons involved.

When she heard Jack Vernon, bantering with the girls, lowering his voice with an insinuating remark, laying his hands on their arms or holding their hands, or his arms about their slender waists—oh! she hated men.

They are all alike—deceitful, selfish, fickle, physically greedy. Yes, of course, she despised the girls, too, but how at the mercy of the men they were; if one desired their approval at all, one must measure up (or rather down) to their standards.

No! not all men were like that—she was forced to compromise, nor all girls—first of all she was reminded of her father and mother; the beautiful traditions of their ancestors. What of that posterity? Even Winfield, whose ancestors were among the finest of those advocates of love, health and home—she caught herself up in her reverie. She had resolved never to allow Winfield to intrude even into her thoughts! He wasn't worthy of the consummation of one of her brain cells.

Her work was fast changing and becoming more responsible. Several times she was called into the offices of Mr. Spencer, Mr. Borden, the president, or some of the other officials to take important letters. She also progressed from having the dictaphone cylinders to the operating of the machine itself, made invoices and was assigned some of the bookkeeping. She enjoyed it all, but sometimes wondered why she was changed about so much while some of the other girls remained on the same work week after week. She soon discovered why.

She had been with the National Chemical Company just two months, when Mr. Chase informed her one morning that Mr. Spencer wished to see her at once in his office. She tried to decide why Mr. Spencer should summon her to his office—looked inquiringly at Mr. Chase for enlightenment.

"He didn't say what it was for," he said, "but you know, Miss Forester, you need not be anxious, I'm sure."

He smiled reassuringly. She hurried to the washroom where she hastily brushed her black hair to a glossy smoothness, touched up her face with her powder puff, her cheeks were flushed with such inward excitement that they needed no rouge, her fresh lips had never required that makeup, she straightened her simple, one-piece, beltless frock, thinking all the while. She felt a little as she

Star Gazing BY RADIE HARRIS

Real time is Kathleen Morrison. It's everybody's "colleen."

Saw the first light of day in Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 8, 1902. Has been viewing it through rose-colored glasses ever since.

Attended convent because in all the books she read, actresses always began their careers in convents.

Until recently had her own unit at First National Studios. Received salary of $10,000 per week. Which explains why she believes in the barley stone.

Wears harps because she is very conscious of her forehead.

Has two different colored eyes. One is brown, the other blue. Claims it is better than having them black and blue.

Won't take a bath in a hotel unless the tub is cleansed with Listerine.

Dislike for Smoking Can't stand the taste of cigarettes. Whenever she has to smoke in a picture, becomes violently ill afterward.

Has a terrific yen to play "Madame Butterfly" on the screen some day. Her favorite picture to date is "So Big."

Collects perfumes for the fancy bottles. Rarely opens them. Could enter a contest with Will Rogers for non-stop gum chewing. And win it.

Remembers a "paunting" much longer than a "boost."

Always forgets to eat when busy. Suffers terribly from indigestion—yeast cakes, notwithstanding.

Bewails the fact that she doesn't know how to be "sawky." Made her first attempt at being very elegant at the world premiere of "Lilac Time" was escorted out of her Rolls Royce by Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, while came as clicked on all sides. Became so nervous she clutched her beads and sent them flying to the four winds. Has never tried to be "elegant" since.

Simply can't stay dressed up, is perfectly groomed when she leaves her home, but hasn't been gone five minutes when she has lost her scarf, her handkerchief or some other accessory. Has yet to lose her reputation.

After the premiere of "Lilac Time," her husband, John McCormack, presented her with a tiny silver plaque bearing the motto of the picture, "Love Never Dies."

Bible in N. Y. City Schools Is Upheld by Authorities

Corporation Counsel Fights Free-Thinker's Suit—Clarence Darrow Will Lead Battle for Abolishment.

ARTHUR J. HILLY ARTHUR G. HAYS JAMES J. WALKER CLARENCE DARROW MAJ. JOS. WHEELERS

NEW YORK, July 2.—Clarence Darrow, eminent criminal lawyer, is planning to lead an attempt to force Bible reading out of New York City schools.

The Titan of the Chicago bar, who plucked Leopold, Loeb and a thousand others from the shadow of the electric chair, will begin the greatest legal fight of his career before Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Brandeis shortly when he moves to restrain teachers from preparing of supper. She told her story a little breathlessly.

"Shore, and didn't I tell you how well I'd be doing?" she wanted to know. "Right glad am I that you're getting' such a fine chance, but bless me soul, and what'll I be doing without you?" A tear glistened in her eye but she hastily brushed it away with her apron. "Where did you say—SAINT LOUIS? My! Ain't that terrible far away?"

"Not so very far, Mother Flynn, but I haven't definitely decided to go. I want you to tell me what to do."

"Now, as ef I could be tellin' ye what to do when I know nothin' at all about sech work. But ef 'twas me, I think I'd be after takin' a chance."

So it was decided that at the end of the week, Clara Dee would go to the St. Louis office, as private secretary to the branch manager. Mr. Randall, at least, it would take her from New York and its unpleasant associations of the winter months. Her only regret was in leaving Mrs. Flynn.

The Theater

Dark-eyed Billie Dove, often called "the most beautiful girl in films," and known in private life as Lillian Bohny Willat, obtained a divorce in Los Angeles Tuesday from Irvin Willat, movie director.

Billie testified she married Willat October 27, 1923 and that due to his cruelties she was compelled to leave him on September 15, 1929.

BILLIE DOVE

There was no community property and the couple had no children. A property settlement effected out of court was approved.

Miss Dove testified Willat flew into fits of rage and often struck her.

In spite of the talkie craze, R. Hayes Hamilton, Xenia, who is connected with the Hotel Aspinwall, Lenox, Mass., has opened his theater in the hotel with a silent picture program booked.

Mr. Hamilton introduced the movie theater to hotels with which he has been connected, and he installed the Hotel Aspinwall Theater. The theater is designed only for the entertainment of guests and this fact makes expensive equipment prohibitive.

It has been Mr. Hamilton's custom to equip the theaters with movie machines and show first-grade pictures. Now that the talkies have come into popularity the cost of talking picture equipment is prohibitive for a theater such as his, so he will run talkies without the sound. He has booked "Illusion," "Mystery Island," "Fast Company," "Speedway," "Welcome Danger," "His Glorious Night," "Four Feathers," "Intamed," "The Love Doctor," "Free and Easy," "The Virginian," "The Viking," "Playing Around," "The Saturday Night Kid," "Caught Short" and "Strictly Modern."

D. W. Griffith, who made "The Birth of a Nation," defends the present undertaking of synchronizing the old film with sound and re-releasing it.

"The acting in 'The Birth of a Nation' is still good," says Griffith. "If you find a leading man today as handsome as Henry B. Walthall was in his youth, you could make a fortune out of him. Miss Gish was lovely, too."

DAYTON POWER AND LIGHT WILL BUILD NEW BUILDING HERE

Plans for the construction of a $20,000 store house and garage by the Dayton Power and Light Co. adjacent to its sub-station on S. King St. are in the hands of E. H. Heathman, Xenia manager, and bids on the project are expected to be received about July 10.

The building, situated along the railroad near the power house, will be of combination brick and concrete construction with steel supports and will be one story in height. The dimensions will be forty by eighty feet.

The structure will contain offices for the company's line department and will be used as a storehouse for line material. The garage will house the firm's cars.

MUST FILE BUDGETS

County Auditor P. H. Creswell reminds clerks of the thirty-nine taxing districts of Greene County that all 1931 budgets must be on file at his office by July 15. Only two budgets for next year have been submitted to date, these having been received from the district health board and Ross Twp. school district. When all budgets for next year are on file the County Budget Commission will meet to organize and consider the various requests for operating expenses in 1931.

THE VALUE of SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE GOOD PERFORMANCE of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance.

Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.
